Hope Schools Will Seek Assessments Rather Than Millage

In a statement published on this page yesterday the Hope Board of Education said it "is not going to increase school millage beyond 18 mills at the next annual school election."

"The board is committed to a policy of working with the equalization board and the tax assessor to try to equalize assessments. There unquestionably exists today much inequity between real estate assessments on property of comparable value in Hope School District. The same is doubtless true of personal property. . . . The aim is to distribute the burden among all taxpayers in proportion to the values of the property they own. . . . This, of course, is a fair and honest statement of sound public policy."

Arkansas has what amounts to a voluntary assessing system, which forward-looking citizens have been trying to reform for years — and their efforts were recently depressed last November when the state's voters, guided by some irresponsible lobbyists and some Johnny-Come-Lately editorial comment, abolished the 18-mill tax ceiling.

The effect of this abolition was to allow local school authorities (if they chose) to take the road to a higher tax on a lower assessment base, instead of compelling them to shake up assessments and get a full coverage.

The local district isn't going to make the mistake of once more following the millage illusion down the road to bankruptcy. The record shows that every time the millage was raised assessments went down and the net amount of tax money remained about the same.

This was a great fraud against the citizen who assessed openly and honestly — he paid a higher tax on what he assessed, while his neighbor, by declaring less, escaped any increase whatsoever.

Taxes, particularly local taxes — and, above all, school taxes — are something the average citizen certainly expects to pay, and not so grudgingly, either. For he can see, here at home, why money is needed, and where it is going.

But the essence of taxation is that it shall be fair — levied against each citizen according to his stake in the community. Most men, rich or poor, want to do the right thing. Unfortunately, Arkansas has an assessing system which is in itself an invitation to do everything but the right thing — on the grounds that you have to do what you can get out of it, so you yourself won't be gypped.

If the majority of the school districts over Arkansas hold to the same public policy that was declared by the Hope board yesterday, the schools are going to run into financial trouble — just as they did before the 1929 depression, when assessments declined as fast as tax rates increased.

Transportation Strike at Youngstown

Youngstown, O., June 1 — (AP) — A walkout of bus drivers halted public transportation in this industrial city of 167,000 today.

Members of the AFL bus drivers union failed to start the morning shift, and the city was left with a "tinny meeting."

Negotiations for a new contract with the Youngstown municipal railway began about eight weeks ago and continued through last night, when the old contract expired.

The union asked a wage increase of 26 cents an hour and 13 changes in working rules for its 300 members. Drivers have been receiving $1.34 an hour.

Marshall M. Mahner, company vice president and general manager, said the company's final proposal was presented last night. Union sources said it was for a wage increase of seven cents an hour. A meeting of union members at 1:30 a.m. rejected the offer 155 to 30.

Jaycee Unit to Be Organized Thursday Night

Thursday night at 7:30 at Hope City Hall a Junior Chamber of Commerce organizational meeting will be held. William Reardon, temporary chairman, announced.

Members of the Arkadelphia Junior Chamber of Commerce will submit a charter for approval and aid in the organization.

All young men in Hope who are civic minded and interested in improving the city are asked to attend.

Specialty Shop to Observe Its 25th Birthday Friday

The Specialty Shop, South Elm street, will observe its 25th anniversary Friday, June 3.

It was founded a quarter of a century ago by the late L. S. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, the present Mrs. H. M. Olson.

The present owner, Mike Kelly, welcomes visitors and patrons on the 25th anniversary day this Friday.

Officials Expect Series of Strikes During Summer

Washington, June 1 — (AP) — Government officials who keep tabs on labor matters said today the nation may be in for a summer burst of strikes.

These authorities list imminent negotiations in the coal, steel, automobile and maritime industries as crucial in determining if there will be labor peace or strike conflict in the months ahead.

But a rash of smaller strikes could break out, too, they said privately. During the war government controls over wages led many smaller unions to expect they could get the "pattern" pay awards won by the larger unions.

This tendency for the smaller unions to demand and get, the way to some extent after the war, "pattern" awards has continued. Most unions got the 18-cent raise the big unions negotiated in 1946.

The next year the pattern was about 15 cents, and in 1949 about 12 cents.

Now the experts say, collective bargaining results depend more and more on an employer's ability to pay, or his own economic situation. So the variation among unions is widening all the time.

A private labor relations advisory service recently estimated fourth round wage increases given so far average just under 8 cents an hour.

The surveys show a great many fourth round settlements without any pay boost at all.

Banker Dies, Officers Kill Assailant

Jasper, June 1 — (AP) — A former Arkansas Republican leader was wounded fatally and his assailant killed by officers in an unexplained shooting affray in this isolated county seat town in the Ozark mountains yesterday.

State police said "we don't know" the motive, "but we are investigating."

J. W. Moore, 62, executive vice-president of the Newton County bank and at one time active in GOP affairs died at 1:30 a. m. to day in a Harrison, Ark., hospital of a bullet wound in his abdomen. His widow was at the bedside.

The dead man was identified from papers on his person as Albert Herman Mayer, 34, once of Chicago but more recently of Route 2 Roland, Ark., near Little Rock.

Moore was shot while talking to a friend on the lawn of the Newton county courthouse. Mayer ran into the building where he exchanged shots with Sheriff Russell Burdine and others but finally was killed by a shot through the neck.

Burdine said he learned after the shooting that Mayer recently was a "crazy letter" to the "court-house" at Jasper in which he demanded $10,000.

Other sources said Mayer in 1946 purchased some property in Newton county, Cal., after a short time at a considerable loss and recently had written letters to Jasper residents contending he had been defrauded.

Sheriff Burdine said Moore was talking to Roscoe Phillips, a real estate dealer when Mayer shot at an automobile said "what's going on here?" and opened fire.

Nobody said that Phillips or Moore had anything to do with the real estate transaction.

Mayer was shot in the chest with eight rounds of ammunition for his pistol. Most of it was in a small bag found near him after he was shot the sheriff said.

Moore was the father of Prosecutors Gene Moore of Harrison and Dr. Lex Moore, Harrison dentist, who is a member of the Arkansas State Police commission.

Marijuana Plants Found Growing in Hotel

Atlanta, June 1 — (UP) — A man identified as favoring Bloombaum, 34 was held here today by police and federal agents found marijuana plants growing in flower pots in his hotel room.

Officers said they also found four packages of marijuana cigarettes and a loaded .22 caliber pistol in Bloombaum's room when they raided it with federal narcotics agents yesterday.

Bloombaum was identified as the man who escaped from federal marshals in Baltimore, Md., four months ago, officers said.

He had been arraigned on charges of selling marijuana in Baltimore and was being taken back to his cell on Jan. 29 when he broke away and escaped in four flights of stairs and escaped in a taxi according to T. W. McGreevey, district supervisor of the federal narcotics bureau here.

To Be Tried in Connection With Highway Death

Bentonville, June 1 — (UP) — Trial was scheduled in circuit court here this week for Pvt. Holly Mason, Jr., in connection with the accidental highway death of John L. McClellan Jr.

The son of U. S. Sen. John L. McClellan was killed when his car collided with one driven by Mason near Rogers early in March. The Gravette Ark. soldier is charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Three Men Said Involved in Lynching

Irwinton Ga., June 1 — (UP) — Wilkinston county Sheriff George Hatcher said today he believes at least three men were involved in the slaying of Negro Calib Hill, Jr., who was taken from his jail cell here and beaten and shot to death.

That would make the Negro prisoner's death a lynching under the definition of the authoritative Tuskegee institute in Alabama.

Tuskegee defines a lynching as a case in which three or more persons conspire to deal out death without a trial.

Although testimony of two other prisoners indicated that the 28-year-old Hill was removed from his cell by three men, Hatcher said he doubted that such small number of persons would have committed the crime.

Meanwhile, there were unconfirmed reports that the FBI had entered the investigation to see if Hill was lynched in violation of his civil rights.

Hatcher said Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents were also helping with the case.

The sheriff admitted he left the jail unguarded during the early morning hours Monday when the Negro was whisked from his cell and slain.

Hatcher said he was out looking for his gun, which he had lost in a fight while he was arresting Hill at a Negro juke joint following a report that the Negro had been involved in a stabbing.

Hill was found dead beside a road about three miles from here early Monday morning. His head was bashed and he had been shot in the head and body.

Another Negro prisoner testified at the inquest that two white men entered the jail while Hatcher was gone and took Hill away. The sheriff said they must have unlocked Hill's cell with keys which he left on a table.

The bullet removed from the dead Negro's head provided the only tangible clue to the slaying. Officers planned to make ballistic tests today in hope of getting a lead on the death weapon.

Woman Freed in Slaying of Husband

Little Rock, June 1 — (AP) — A Pulaski circuit court jury has accepted Mrs. Louise Reed Branch's story that her husband was shot accidentally.

The 25-year-old mother was acquitted of second degree murder yesterday. The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

Herbert Branch, millwright, was killed at a mill yard here last Dec. 10 as he struggled with his wife for possession of a pistol. Mrs. Branch said she had intended "scaring" her husband with the weapon.

Mrs. Branch held her 19-months-old daughter in her arms during the scuffle. Another child was born to the widow a month and a half after the shooting.

Stock Market Slumps to New Lows for Year — Rice Futures Opened on N. Y. Exchange

New York, June 1 — (UP) — The stock market slumped to new lows for the year and longer at the opening today.

Wall Street sources said the opening decline was caused by a flood of overnight selling orders attracted by yesterday's sharp break, when leading stocks were dumped on the market at losses of $2 and $3 a share by traders who were nervous over the business trend.

After these orders were out of the way, the market turned quiet and steady. In some instances the low prices of leading shares that were hard hit yesterday attracted a little buying and brought them small gains. These included American Smelting and Norfolk and Western.

But most stocks held at the opening. Only a few fractional drops to bring them there in view of yesterday's plunge, the sharp decline since Nov. 9, 1948.

At the opening by Radio Corp. sold at 10 3/8, off 1/4 on a block of 3,500 shares; General Motors 1500 shares, off 5/4 off 1/4 Chrysler 46 5/8 off 7/8; U. S. Steel 65 1/4 off 1/2, and Standard Oil (N.J.) 64 1/8 off 1/4.

Most disquieting of the news that caused yesterday's break according to Wall Street sources was the report on current steel production. Steel is considered a bell weather of business conditions generally and much pessimism resulted when it was announced that steel production this week will be at 91.8 per cent capacity, the seventh successive weekly decline.

Other factors included sporadic reports of spreading unemployment and a federal reserve board report for April showing the fifth straight monthly drop in industrial production.

New York, June 1 — (UP) — The first day of operations of rice futures on the New York Mercantile Exchange ended today with no sales made.

Bids for futures in the four contract months were marked down persistently in line with the lower prices in other commodity markets.

The closing ranges were September rice in grain 7 1/2 and 8 1/2 asked per hundred pounds; December rice in grain 8 1/2 and 9 1/2 asked; October long grain 8 1/2 and 9 1/2 asked, and January long grain 8 1/2 and 9 1/2 asked.

Brokers said the weakness in the stock market commodity market frightened buyers away from the rice futures market today. They felt the market as a whole was a firm level of prices had been established in the first day.

Orders both to buy and sell were received from Tennessee, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and California. The bulk of the orders to sell came from the trade.

The spread between bids and offers narrowed steadily from the opening bid at 9 a. m. (CST).

The 30 members of the Mercantile Exchange permitted to trade on the floor in rice futures agreed that for the first day of the market was devoted to establishing a price level. They believe that once a price level is established actual transactions in futures will be made rapidly and in increasing volume.

A considerable number of selling orders came on to the exchange floor overnight as a result of weakness in the Chicago grain market.

Milton G. Inkle, president of the Mercantile Exchange, said in a statement that "the rice futures market opened at a normal level of merchandising and financing the rice crop from the surplus period to the time of actual purchasing."

Might Be Restful to See Those Who Claim They Work Like Machines Replaced By One

New York, June 1 — (UP) — The human race soon will be able to spend all its time playing pin money.

At present people still waste a lot of energy beating a living out of the world and fretting over other foolish problems.

Good old science is changing all that. Almost every day now it comes up with a new gadget to solve a worry that has plagued mankind since the Lord gave Adam a ribbing.

Take the problem of putting the baby to sleep at night. Now that should be a simple thing. But is has bothered every family since caveman days, and that is going back 40,000 years. And it always ended up with papa or mama having to tramp back and forth with the yawling infant crooning it a lullaby.

Well, after these 400 centuries, a fellow came along and invented an automatic rocker. It not only rocks the baby, it sings to him, too. In his mother's voice. And that is the latest work like people in the living room and earn a living at gun runny off the visting neighbors.

But the mechanical baby rocker, the automatic dish washer, the refrigerator and deep freezer unit, the vacuum cleaner, the television set that brings vaudeville into your parlor—these are as nothing to science's new wonder the "electric brain."

Here is a real thingamajig. And if you expect to keep up with the Joneses in the future, you're going to have to have one handy around the house. And you might as well start saving up for the down payment now, as a pilot model presently in production will cost about $200,000.

This "electric brain" is named "Zephyr," and he's going to be some boy. He's being built by Dr. Harry Huskey for the U. S. bureau of standards at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Zephyr will take up where Einstein left off. He will be able to translate three foreign languages, or perform 16,000 additions and 4,000 multiplications a second. With this faithful big-brain standing in the corner of a school child need never dread homework.

It is also promised that this electrical wizard will be able to compute salary payments—not that this bit of arithmetic has ever been any strain on the average man's intellect. But Zephyr in addition can predict the weather, even in California, and replace minor executives.

This last function is indeed a happy one as it promises to rid the world of a highly troublesome class—the straw bosses. These strange people—you find them in every office staring at a "think" motto on their desks—like to boast they work like machines. It will be restful to see them replaced by machines that work like people. And, of course, it was inevitable that in the march of progress somebody would invent a machine that could collect flyspecks as well as do minor executives, who make machines that work like people. But Zephyr's real place will be in the home.

With his mathematical ability he'll be able to balance your wife's bank book without stripping a gear. And he'll easily figure a way to cut your income tax in half, the true test of genius in our times.

Zephyr is only slightly larger than a kitchen cabinet, and presumably he'll come in either a walnut or mahogany veneer. At a paltry $200,000, what home can afford to be without him?

Clark Refuses to Give Files to Senate Group

Washington, June 1 — (UP) — Attorney General Tom Clark today refused to give a senate committee the secret government files on 164 officials of foreign governments.

Clark told a senate judiciary subcommittee the information is "extremely delicate" and even involves ambassadors and foreign ministers of European governments.

He promised to cooperate with the committee to give "all the information possible."

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) said the committee does not want the files themselves—but he wants a "revelation of the basic facts" in the files.

Clark and Assistant Secretary of State John E. Puerfiter had been subpoenaed by the group to produce the files on 164 persons. Clark said he had two or three of them are foreigners.

Instead of the files, McCarran demanded Clark produce information to show how many Communists in the last five years and are active in the last five years and are active in the last five years.

He submitted a list of 11 questions to Clark and asked that he answer them by next Monday.

Civic Problems Discussed in Open Meeting

Civic problems were aired at an old-fashioned open air forum last night at Fair park, a town meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

George W. Robison, Chamber president, presided and speakers included Lyle Brown, James Pilkinton, George Peck, William Reardon, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Tillery, Frank King, F. C. Crow, Frank McLarty, Ole Olson and a Mr. Collins. Approximately 100 persons attended. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Anderson discussed the competitive situation between the Hope Chamber of Commerce and organizations in other Arkansas cities. He heartily endorsed organization of a Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Brown discussed municipal affairs and urged citizens to take more interest in city council work and to express themselves in advance of a town meeting. An important matter has already been decided. He told the group that a comparative electricity rate ratio is being studied.

Mr. Pilkinton discussed organization of the Chamber of Commerce and rights of its members, while George Peck outlined the work, purpose and divisions of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission.

William Reardon discussed purpose of a Junior Chamber of Commerce, its founding and development.

Mr. Robison extended an invitation to a Junior Chamber organization to use facilities of the senior chamber.

Frank King announced the Lions club's project this year of erecting street markers at approximately 305 intersections in Hope. The club plans to sell aluminum house numbers at $1.50 per set to finance this project. The project drew wholehearted approval of the project.

In an open forum the following issues were discussed: farm market, remodeling out-dated down town buildings, parking on Highway 67, Roving Rovers, highway encouraging existing industry and need for an adequate modern hotel.

The Melody Boys entertained the group.

Methodist Bible School Starts June 6

Junior Department No. 1 under the supervision of Mrs. J. W. Perkins and the Primary department of the First Methodist church, will begin a Vacation Bible school study on "Our Daily Bread" next Monday, June 6, from 9 to 11 a.m. for five consecutive days.

This unit of work is planned for this age group of children to help them associate God with the food they eat, discovering His part in providing that food and making more meaningful the habit of thanking God for it. A unit on "Our Daily Bread" will be incomplete if plans for sharing with a hungry world were not included and throughout the week, emphasis will be given to a "sharing project" and these children encouraged in saving a sum of money for a children's Day Nursery near Springdale, Arkansas, under the supervision of the Methodist church, where migrant children are cared for during the hours when their parents are working.

State Cotton Crop Reported in Good Shape

Little Rock, June 1 — (UP) — Practically all Arkansas cotton has been planted and present soil moisture indicates fair to good stands, according to the weekly weather and crop bulletin.

Most areas of the state now have enough soil moisture to bring up late planted crops, the report said. Before the showers, however, the topsoil had become too dry to germinate seed in many southern and eastern counties. Some rice fields were irrigated to bring up the crop, but cotton and corn had to wait for rain.

Most of the early planted cotton is coming up, and stands are generally fair to good.

Chopping is more advanced than it was at the same time last year.

Early seeded Arkansas rice has been watered one or two times and is reported growing satisfactorily. Some planters are applying fertilizer before the second flood. Late seeded rice still is coming.

Demands to See Records of Atomic Group

Washington, June 1 — (UP) — Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) today demanded to see atomic energy commission records on 14 agreements and transactions and security data on an unnamed number of persons.

Hickenlooper fired this demand when the senate-house atomic committee began hearings on his charge that there has been "incredible mismanagement" of the atomic energy commission under the chairmanship of David E. Lilienthal.

Hickenlooper had a sealed envelope he said contained the names of the persons he wants to get security data about. He did not say how many names there were.

With Lilienthal and Carroll L. Wilson, AEC general manager, facing him over a committee chairmanship, Hickenlooper began by saying that Lilienthal is "inadequate" to fill the job he holds.

The Iowa senator then demanded the information on 14 different matters and started to hand to Lilienthal the sealed envelope.

Leaders to End Meet of Presbyterians

Montreal, N. C., June 1 — (UP) — The 88th general assembly of the southern Presbyterian church in the United States was expected to end here today with a pledge of cooperation with the northern church but a firm understanding that reunion was currently out of the question.

The church leaders late yesterday approved detailed plans for cooperation of northern and southern churches from the assembly level down to the local church union adopted by the general assembly in 1948.

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogde of New Orleans chairman of the assembly's committee on cooperation and union, defended his committee report contending that the moratorium was intended only on discussion of actual plans for reunion and that the 1948 assembly recommended "a venue of acquaintance and cooperation be explored."

The assembly failed to take any final action on overtures for an apology to the family of the late Lunsford Richardson of Greensboro.

Following a federal court suit in which the church charged Lunsford Richardson, Jr., and Smith Richardson with fraudulently obtaining stocks left in trust by their father, the church was awarded $1,000,000 in securities. But the court cleared the two Richardson sons of any wrong doing, and since then efforts have been virtually continuous to secure an apology from the church.

Big Four Ministers' Meet in Paris Seems to Be Losing Valuable Ground

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Big Four foreign ministers' council in Paris seems no closer to substantial agreement between Russia and the Western powers than it was when it started ten days ago. In fact the conference has lost much of the atmosphere of amiability in which it opened.

The only worthwhile possibility that appears at the moment is some sort of economic unity between the Eastern and Western zones of Germany. The chances of political unity already have gone down the drainpipe.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky last week gave his customary "no" to the proposal by America, Britain and France that the Russian zone of Germany form a political union with the new federal republic comprising the three Western zones. Then yesterday he proposed that the foreign ministers' council invite a delegation from the Communist-dominated "German People's congress" to the Soviet zone to appear before it.

The "German People's congress" has adopted a constitution for a "German Democratic republic."

The idea of the delegation appearing before the council was to advocate that Western Germany join the "German Democratic republic."

The three Western powers voted down Vishinsky's proposal. They contended the people's congress isn't really representative of all Germany, as it claims to be. So Vishinsky got an echoing "no."

This projected Eastern zone republic is to be a totalitarian regime like those of the other satellite states. Should there be a union between the communized "German Democratic republic" and the federal republic of the Western area, the Red zone would provide the spearhead for the attempted communization of the other three zones. For that reason Moscow would jump at the chance to make such a union, and by the same token the Western democracies will keep as far away from it as possible.

Incidentally, communism looked down its nose at Uncle Sam and nominated Gerhart Eisler to the Red-dominated "German People's congress." This fugitive who has been described by a U.S. congressional committee as top Communist agent in America, remarked yesterday when he landed in Prague enroute to Germany: "I am glad to be in Czechoslovakia and not in the United States."

So far as concerns the taking over of Western Germany by the "German People's republic," it's wholly unlikely Moscow expected it could be done. It was just a maneuver. Actually the average German hates the name of communism and the only way he could be made to bow to it would be by force.

While the chances of any political unity between East and West are slim indeed, authoritative sources in Paris say the Western powers will try to salvage some form of economic unity for Germany from the council meeting. There may be a chance of success here, for there is small doubt that Moscow itself is anxious to get an ing up, and conditions are favorable for good stands.

Other crop conditions at a glance:

Early corn is growing fast and has good prospects. Some already has been laid by in the southern half of the state, and some of the earliest is beginning to tassel.

Harvest of fall sown oats is getting underway. Yields are reported to be poor in most counties.

Early planted soybeans are doing well but germination of those planted recently has been delayed. Planting of sorghums continues.

Irish potatoes have been hurt by dry weather during most of May. Prospects for peaches and apples remain favorable.

Snap beans and cucumbers soon will be ready for harvest in west-central and southern counties.

Rejoins Army After Marital Mixup

New York, June 1 — (AP) — Anthony Martino, listed officially as dead or missing for five years and center of a two-family marital mixup was back in the army today.

The army, after he had reported for a checkup of his nebulous status, announced he returned to its ranks "technically" May 6 when he first informed military authorities he was alive.

Martino who had been given up for dead in action in France in 1944, said he had no desire to see his legal wife, Mrs. Mary Martino 37 of Waterbury Conn.

In Waterbury, Martino, who learned that her husband had a wartime mate and one child on Staten Island announced she would seek a legal separation.

Col. John S. Roosma, First Army provost marshal, said "as of now" we're bringing him back into the army like any other soldier who surrenders himself after being absent from his unit."

Martino was to undergo an army physical and psychiatric examination. Then Roosma said, he can stay at Governors Island or go home pending arrival of his records from the St. Louis storage depot. It will be about a week before they get here, the colonel said.

Martino appeared at the army recruiting station, where he called a few weeks ago to get his army records straight. He said he didn't know how he got home from Europe. He was identified through fingerprints as Richard 3.

"Do you have any desire to see your first wife?" he was asked. "None at all," he answered. "How about the children?" (Edward, 11, and Lorraine seven at Waterbury).

"Yes I'd like to see my children but I've got no plans as to how," Martino replied.

agreement which will open up trade between Eastern and Western Europe.

The Eastern European bloc is in a bad way, economically, owing to the long disruption of continental trade. Western Europe is doing better, because of the Marshall plan. However, it might get ahead faster if there were a resumption of trade relations with the countries behind the iron curtain.

Thus a revival of economic relations seems to offer the only likely ground for agreement. In any event, that ground probably will be surveyed.

"But," someone asks, "doesn't all this mean a continuation of the cold war?"

It certainly does! We are just entering a new phase of it that's all.

Condemned Man Ends His Life With Razor

Jackson, Miss., June 1 — (AP) — J. W. Poore condemned to die in the electric chair Friday for a slaying he denied to the last was found bleeding to death in his cell this morning; an open, blood-stained Bible nearby.

He died after he was discovered at 7:15 a. m. (CST). Night Jailer L. H. McNair said Poore's arms were slashed with a razor blade. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

It was Poore's second attempt to beat the electric chair. He slashed his wrists and arms last August.

Poore was convicted in December, 1947, of stabbing A. H. Hoyer Laguna Beach Calif. geologist to death. The state charged robbery was the motive.

The 36-year-old Alabamian's death came while the United States Supreme Court had before it a petition for a stay of execution pending another appeal. It was filed Tuesday. The court several months ago refused to consider an earlier appeal. The state supreme court also had turned down two appeals.

Call Pledges Cooperation With All

Little Rock June 1 — (UP) — C. K. Call of Little Rock became labor commissioner of Arkansas today with a pledge to enforce all labor laws and to work for closer cooperation between employer and employee.

Because of an increased labor department appropriation by the 1949 legislature, Call said he would be in a better position to enforce the labor laws.

"It is our promise to the workers of Arkansas... That the safety laws which protect their lives and health will become adequately administered through a more complete coverage of our state," Call said in a prepared statement.

City Gets $20,000 From General Surplus Fund

Little Rock, — (AP) — Arkansas cities and counties received $3,200,000 from the state's general surplus fund. Distribution included Hope, $20,145, while Hempstead received a total of $24,141.31.

Vet Pension Bill Gets By House

Washington June 1 — (AP) — The house passed and sent to the senate today a World War I and II veterans' pension bill after knocking out an "unable-to-work" provision.

Passage came quickly after a spirited fight over the unemployment proposal recommended by the veterans' committee. The provision went out of the bill by a standing vote of 172 to 57.

There were no other changes proposed to the bill, estimated to cost, in its present form $650,000,000 in addition to what now is being paid in pensions under veterans' administration regulations.

The one-sidedness of the fight over the unemployment clause led to abandonment of a planned battle to eliminate World War II veterans from the bill's provisions.

There was less than two hours of debate on the bill which actually writes into permanent law regulations under which pensions now are being paid to many veterans.

A much more costly bill was defeated by the house in March. Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.) of the veterans committee had opposed the unable-to-work provision as unfair and discriminatory.

Clubs

Hopewell

Various packaging used for freezing foods was discussed at the May meeting of the Hopewell home demonstration club May 25, at the home of Mrs. John Keck.

Seven members answered roll call with reason why I would freeze fruits and vegetables this year.

Mrs. Keck gave the devotional and prayer followed with the group singing, "Home on the Range." Mrs. O. D. Hodnett, president, presided over the business session.

Mrs. Rex Johnson conducted the recreational period with Mrs. Hodnett and Mrs. Keck tying in a clever quiz game. Mrs. Hodnett received the monthly prize package.

A sandwich plate and iced drinks were served following the games. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Vic Thompson on June 22.

Shover Springs

The Shover Springs home demonstration club met May 24 at the Community building with Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, nineteen members, one new member, Mrs. Ruth Spradling, three visitors and nine children present.

The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Howard Collier. After the regular procedure of the meeting, Mrs. Troy Greenice, Food Preservation leader, gave a demonstration on judging canned products for the fair and preparation of fruits and vegetables for the frozen lock.

Mrs. Blackwood showed several types of containers used for freezing foods.

The trip to the Ozarks this summer planned by the club women was discussed.

The surprise package was won by Mrs. Robert Garrett. Several games were played. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Harold Sanford and Mrs. George Crews.

Sweet Home

A demonstration on "Preparation of fruits and vegetables for freezing" was given by Mrs. B. J. Warnken at the Sweet Home home demonstration club meeting Friday afternoon May 2 at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Warnken. Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood showed several types of containers to use for frozen foods and gave the advantages and disadvantages of each. There were 21 members, two visitors, one new member and Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Hazel Cummings. The song of the month, "Home on the Range" was sung by all. Devotional was given by the hostess followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

The club voted to have a pot-luck supper every second Friday night at 7:30 p. m., beginning June 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Candy Lid's Off

These London youngsters are enjoying a thrill they have never known before—walking into a candy store and buying whatever they want without ration coupons. It's the first time in seven years that candy has been off the British ration list. Ivor Greer, 4, Wendy Morden, 5, and Colin Greer, 6, read the sign, "It's All Yours," looked over the confectionery jars and chose lollipops.

JUST A REMINDER—Not even this statue was safe, when political posters were plastered on a street corner in Trieste, as campaigning begins for the first local administrative elections since the war. Although the elections are local, the results may indicate the temper of the people with regard to the future of the free territory, smack on Russia's iron curtain.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

The Story: Bea Cosgrove, unsatisfied that Lilly Warren's death on Spore Island was suicide, has just shown Fred Silwell, who came to the island with George Bascombe, Mollie Stark and Nona McGuire via shipwreck, that the alibi given by the islanders are worthless. Lilly might have been killed elsewhere and placed in one of the casks of the funicular railway where her body was found. She shows Silwell how the cars operate. Later in the morning, Silwell has a private meeting with Harding and Bea goes into the garden with Mabel Jones and Nona McGuire. Mabel reveals she knows

Lloyd Wood. Everyone is invited to attend.

A pink and blue shower was given Mrs. Bill Shultz of Dallas, Texas, during the recreation period after which the club adjourned to meet June 17 at the home of Mrs. Carl Brown.

Evening Shade The Evening Shade home demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. Faye Neel May 3 with twelve members, two visitors and one new member, Mrs. Lester Huckabee.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by the President. The creed was read, followed by the song "Home on the Range." Devotional was given by Mrs. Faye Neel followed by prayer. Mrs. Faye Neel followed by prayer. Mrs. Faye Neel followed by prayer.

Minutes were read and approved. Club members discussed plans to visit the chicken ranch of Mrs. Lester Huckabee at the next club meeting.

Strawberry cake, ice cream, drinks were served by the hostess. The June meeting will be with Mrs. Herbert Elam. Every one come.

Care of Garments Long hot sunny days increase the danger of fading of colored garments. Even though the fabric is guaranteed to be sun and tub fast, gradual fading takes place if the colored garments are exposed to long periods of sunshine.

To keep colored garments looking their best, Home demonstration agent Lorraine Blackwood advises turning them inside out and hanging in the shade to dry. They may be placed on plastic or painted coat hangers and hung in the bathroom or on a shady porch to dry.

As soon as they are dry enough, you bring them in out of the sunshine. Mrs. Blackwood states: White clothes and household cottons bleach a beautiful gleaming white. If dried in bright sunshine. Remember, the bleaching takes place while the cloth is damp, so points out. If more bleaching is desired, wet the clothes again while they are still on the line by spraying them with water from the garden hose.

Once again Spore Island was prepared for a siege, an attack by the elements. Henry Gough Harding lent a physical presence to the doing of the chores. His mind was elsewhere, on some problem over and above the actualities of Spore Island life.

With early dark, Harding had just turned on the generators to flood the house with light when

Eisler Example of Rights of Individual

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington June 1.—(AP)—Communist Gerhart Eisler is a living example of the rights of the individual in a democratic society, even when he'd like to destroy that society.

Twice convicted in the United States, but free on bail, pending appeal, he fled the U. S. as a political refugee, was brought before an English judge, was freed on a legal technicality, and is now safe in Communist Eastern Europe.

His case was judged entirely on legal grounds—on what his rights were under the law and not on political grounds, although a congressional committee had called him America's No. 1 Communist and he had a notorious history of intrigue.

Suppose the situation had been reversed and Communist Eisler was in Russia, was considered the No. 1 foe of the Soviet regime, had committed a crime, fled and was caught in another Communist country behind the iron curtain.

There isn't much doubt he would have been whisked back to Russia probably without a court hearing at all, and for a reason that illustrates perfectly the difference in the attitude of the East and West toward an individual.

Under communism, an individual exists for the state, not the state for the individual. It's just the other way around in a democracy like America's or England's.

In Russia when government policy—which means the desires of the ruling group—conflicts with what a particular law calls the "rights of an individual, the government policy comes first.

Under communism a man looked upon as an enemy of the ruling group, which wants to stay in power, gets short consideration. It's different in the West.

There every individual has certain guaranteed rights and he can appeal to the courts for the protection of those rights if they're interfered with.

In this country Eisler was convicted of contempt of congress and of falsifying a passport. He was sentenced to prison but got out on bail while he appealed to a higher court. Then he skipped to England.

In 1970 England and this country signed an agreement to return to one another a person who had been convicted of perjury in either country.

But the English judge decided that Eisler's falsification of a document here couldn't be considered perjury under the meaning of the treaty, because it didn't cover falsification of documents. So he refused to send Eisler back here.

Knowing perfectly well that Eisler once let loose again would be free to continue to try to destroy Western democratic government, the judge considered first and only what his rights were under the law, as an individual.

The irony of the whole case, of

Fred Silwell pounded on the barricade door.

"What's the idea looking up the shack?"

George Bascombe said, "There's going to be a storm. We'll put up here for the night. More comfortable. This house is built to last and the shack isn't."

"One big happy family," Nona pointed out. "At least it's light here. We can see what goes on."

She looked at Fred Silwell. "Though, maybe that isn't an advantage."

Silwell was sober and dirty. His hands were scratched. He was looking over his shoulder furtively.

"How about a drink?" he suggested. "Miss Firth, I believe custodian."

Agnes looked at Harding. He nodded.

"I'll go with you," Bascombe said. "We'll need a flashlight. It's dark as the inside of a goat."

When they opened the front door again, the wind gusted through with increased force.

Henry Harding walked purposefully to the tower room. The others in the main room could hear the sound of his low voice.

Mollie bounced out, tossing her head angrily. From inside the tower came the sound of the slam of the second story door.

Miss Stark glared at Silwell. "I want to have a talk with you. Alone."

Nona said, "You won't get rid of me until I get a couple of those things they went after."

"Talking to Mollie's a pleasure I can put off indefinitely," Silwell said easily.

George and Agnes came back carrying boxes.

"What?" George said. "That wind's really something in the night."

"You know there must be termites on the land."

"What makes you think that?"

Bea said.

"There's sawdust on the floors of the parlorways. And you know, when we were coming around the corner of the house I thought I saw..."

He broke off abruptly, went to the front window and started out.

Silwell thumped the bottle on the table, turned with the others to stare.

"First," George yelled, "I don't like it. There's fire on the north end of the island."

There was a scuffle of feet, a clatter of push-back chairs, a convergence on the window. Mabel Jones took a quick look, ran to the tower room and Harding.

DOROTHY DIX Turn About—

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a widow 25 years old. Have fallen desperately in love with a boy of 23. I told him that I loved him and he seemed astonished. Said he only loved me as a friend and did not want to marry me because I am older and because I have been married before. Still, his eyes tell me that he really loves me. What shall I do?

STELLA A.

Answer: Don't delude yourself into thinking that any man is so simple that you can only divine from his eyes. A man's eyes are only mirrors in which you see what you want to see. That yearning look which you think you observe is probably caused by thinking of the steak and fried potatoes he is going to have for dinner and doesn't in the least mean that he is longing for you. Women always interpret the look in a man's eyes as soulful but very often he is merely hungry or wanting a drink.

Now, I am an ardent believer in women having the right to pop the question, but when a man says NO, they should be good enough to accept his decision the same as a man does when a woman turns him down. Of course, they also have a man's right to persevere with the wooing if they have any reason to think that the man is likely to change his opinion. However, the over-persuaded golden rule, "Don't put a man down," gives me good advice to let this young man go and turn your attention to some more promising prospect.

His Feelings Platonic When a man tells a woman that she is too old for him and that he doesn't care for warmed over affection, it is very evident that his feelings for her are platonic, and there is not much chance of that kind of love ever being fanned into a flame. Also, you can be very sure that when a man loves a woman she doesn't have to be a clairvoyant. He tells her about it.

Dear Miss Dix: Do you believe in the maxim that opposites attract, and that we should marry those who are entirely different from us in character and disposition, as well as physically? Late ly, I have been going with a girl who has all the virtues that would make her a good wife, except that she has no interest in the things that interest me.

I like to read and study and she never even reads the newspapers. I can't understand a good joke or story, and when I try to discuss anything with her she just gives me a blank stare. Do you think such a marriage would turn out well?

Answer: Absolutely not. I think you would bore each other to death within three months. It is true there is an attraction of opposites, but it is Nature's way of keeping a good general average and preventing the human race from becoming a race of giants and pigmies, and moron and highbrows, but there is also a repulsion of opposites that makes people who have nothing in common with each other break down every barrier to get away from uncongenial companionship.

The happiest couples are those who have husbands and wives who think as they think, who like the things they like, who read the same books and hold the same views on everything from politics to pie. If you have to diagram your jokes to your wife, you will go through life as lonesome as a stray dog. If you like to read, don't marry a woman who isn't a reading woman. She will waste the life out of you about wasting time and money on books.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a woman of 45 and I long to go places and do things, but my husband would rather stay at home and sleep. He says he is dead tired, and that's not true. Is it wrong for a woman my age to want to have a good time?

Answer: Certainly not. A woman of 45 is just in her prime and she is entitled to all the pleasures she can get out of her life. I can't for the life of me see why women make such a trivial fuss about their husbands not taking them out to places of amusement when a woman is just as free to go anywhere now as a man is. If she yearns for the movies, there are matinees every afternoon. She can go to the movies, she can go to her own little bridge parties. It looks as if she might satisfy her craving for diversion without making an issue of her husband not taking her out in the evening.

Have a heart, Mrs. C. D., let your poor husband stay at home, have sleep and do your stepping in the daytime.

course, is this: Eisler won his freedom under the laws of the Western democracies which he despises and would destroy and—

If they were destroyed and replaced by communism, an Eisler who was an enemy of that new regime and committed a crime here and fled to England, would be bounced back here in a hurry.

Fair Enough

Shortly before President Truman and the Democrats recaptured control of the house committee on American activities, two Republican members of the old Thomas committee and three professional investigators held a final, comprehensive session with Whitaker Chambers, the repentant chief of a Soviet spying apparatus, at his farm home near Westminster, Md. The two congressmen sat as official body of the house of representatives and got from Chambers under oath, statements which he had never made in any of his previous examinations by either the committee or the federal grand jury in New York. This material all has been suppressed by the new committee of lawyers chosen by the Democrats in obedience to President Truman's desire to discredit as a "red herring" proof that the Roosevelt administration was a withering mass of treacherous corruption and that his own administration was equally guilty or traitorously negligent.

This final examination of Chambers was held on Dec. 28, 1948, just before the powers of this old committee under Republican control expired. It lasted from three o'clock in the afternoon until ten minutes of eight in the evening. The congressmen, acting as a subcommittee, were Mundt and Nixon. The others present were Robert E. Stripling, the chief investigator, and William A. Wheeler and Donald F. Appell also investigators, who did such astonishing work last year uncovering traitorous conduct in the state department and other departments. Mr. Mundt, since then elected senator, presided.

Discussing his own experiences, his "contacts" and the activities of others during a period from 1923 to 1934, Chambers swore that a Russian whom he knew as both Ulrich and Walter sent him to Dr. Philip Rosenblitt, a dentist, whose office was in the Western Union building at 41st St. and Broadway, New York.

"I was sent there," Chambers swore, "to have work done on my teeth, but Doctor Rosenblitt did a minimum of work on my teeth but became very friendly and told me a number of interesting facts about underground work and Russian espionage."

Stripling: Who sent you to Dr. Rosenblitt?
Chambers: "Ulrich."
Mundt: "To get your teeth fixed?"
Chambers: "Yes. Actually I was sent to Rosenblitt so he could make personal observations about me. It was my understanding that Dr. Rosenblitt was a kind of perfect agent and through his office passed a great deal of information to the Soviet agents in this country over a number of years."

"One operation Dr. Rosenblitt told me about and which is of considerable interest had to do with the mechanism of the Red army. The doctor said that representatives of the Irish Republican army in London made contact with the Soviet underground in London and worked out a deal whereby an officer of the general staff in Washington would turn over to a Soviet agent various information that he had access to. In return, the Russians would send two submarines with machine guns and other arms to the western coast of Ireland. The submarines never showed up but the deal was consummated at this end. At this end it was arranged by a man who, I understand, was the general and who knew the general on the staff."

"The general agreed to turn over to Soviet agents all the material relating to Christie Tanks, and did so, which was why the foreign representatives were surprised to see that tanks that had been in the line of the celebrations in Red square. The general was also a heavy-drinking man, I understand, and during prohibition they used to smuggle liquor that is, Russian agents had to smuggle liquor into the country, to keep the general supplied. That was done through the same couriers as the communications. Somewhere, I heard that the general died in the '30's but I mechanized the Red army. The deal in London was that, in return for the general's services, the Russian government would send two submarines with arms to the west coast of Ireland for the Irish Republican army. The missing connection, perhaps, is that a general was an Irish patriot or in touch with them and he has been quoted to me as saying he was doing it for the sake of Ireland but if he thought he was doing it for those dirty Communists or dirty Russians, he would never do it, which is probably the best evidence you need that he knew what he was doing. When the submarines failed to show up, two of these IRA (Irish Republican Army) boys appeared in Rosenblitt's office and threatened his life, but he managed to talk them out of it."

Chambers said that Adolf Hitler, not F. D. Roosevelt or any underling of his administration, finally frustrated the Russian spies in the United States, although only for a short time. He said that within about two weeks after he came to power, Hitler completely destroyed the communications system of the Russian espionage operation out of Germany on German ships.

"The Russian apparatus (in the United States) was actually cut off in that period," Chambers said.

Mineral Springs to Play Legion Tonight at 8

Manager Clyde Zinn's Hope Legion team will be out for win number four tonight at Fair park when they tangle with the strong Mineral Springs Flyers. Game time is 8 p.m.

The locals have won their last two outings, and will be out to prove their worth in the battle with one of the strongest teams they have faced this year. The Mineral Springs nine is sparked by the Bell brothers who have been pounding the ball over the lot. Gilson Rose continues to lead his team mates in hitting followed by Gary Anderson.

It was announced this morning that all children up to 12 years of age would be admitted free to tonight's game if they are with their parents.

Furillo Makes Durocher Eat His Words

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Furillo the fellow Leo Durocher said couldn't hit right-handeders, is making his old boss eat his words.

The Brooklyn right fielder hit a 14th-inning home run off right-hander Larry Jansen to win the "big game" of the young season for Furillo's second homer.

Furillo's second homer, of the year, both off Jansen, enabled the Dodgers to shade Leo's New York Giants 6-4 in a 3-hour-57 minute marathon at the Polo Grounds. As a result of the homer and a speedy job of no-hit no-run relief pitching by Rookie Jack Banta, the Dodgers enter June in a two-way tie with the Boston Braves for the National League lead. The Giants, who were parting in a triple tie yesterday morning, now are third.

It was a toughie for Jansen who pitched during the long evening. He blew an early 3-0 lead and another 4-3 advantage. Then in the 14th, he dished up the homer to Furillo, tried to get Jansen to pitch, and sent the tiring Giant ace to the showers. Dave Koslo yielded the extra score on Banta's single his first hit of the season.

Banta's top drawer bullpen job was his second victory within a week since Manager Barney Stohr shifted him to fireman duty. Only two men reached base against the lean right-hander. One walked and the other was hit by a double ball. Both were erased.

Jansen was three outs from victory starting the ninth. Gil Hodges opened with a home run. Then they went into their long overtime duel that made it 58 innings for the Giants in the last three days. The big crowd of 43,922, best of the Polo Grounds, night, knew they were watching a battle for first place. The final of Boston's 7-6 afternoon victory over the Braves was posted on the scoreboard.

Boston had to come from way back to take that one. Trailing 5-0 going into the fourth inning, the Braves finally pulled it out when Jim Konstanty walked. Clint Cooper with the bases full in the ninth.

Travelers Take Series Opener From Barons

By The Associated Press
Jimmy McDonald limited the hits at Birmingham last night as the Barons blanked them in a 3-0 victory. The Cracker of Atlanta battered the Mobile Bears, 5 to 1; Little Rock's Travelers scored in the ninth to nip the Chattanooga Lookouts 4 to 3; and the Yols got Memphis 5 to 2.

The Travels took their extra-innings struggle with the Lookouts even got the victory margin without a hit as they won in on a hit batter, a walk, an error and an outfield fly. Art McConnell was the winner.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, June 1 — (AP) — Mr. Manager, how'd you like to have a ball club with seven regulars hitting .300 or better and seven pitchers, the least effective of whom has a .750 won-lost record? That's the position Leo Gooch, White Forest college coach is in as his team prepares for the NCAA playoffs. Wake Forest, always a good baseball school, won 24 games and lost two this season, beating a couple of Class B professional teams on the way. Only the pitchers and catcher Russell Batchelor failed to hit .300 and the averages ranged up to .402 for Wiley Warren, who bats seventh. Batchelor made up for his failure in his last time at bat during the regular season. He had gone 0 for 16 and the Deacons were tied with North Carolina State, the only college team to beat them this year. So Russ clouted one over the fence to win the game.

Johnny Murphy, Auburn backfield coach, likely will use an assumed name, the next time he visits Birmingham. Last night Murphy was in that city when the phone rang and someone inquired, "Johnny Murphy?" "Yes," said Johnny, and before he could utter another word his ear was bent by a frantic plea for a couple of pitchers. If he didn't get a right-hander and a southpaw, he was sunk, the caller explained. This spring the same thing happened again and Johnny sadly explained it was the wrong Murphy. Then he checked and found that Johnny Murphy, farm system manager for the Red Sox, was registered in the same hotel.

Mary Dagnard, who plays soft ball for a La Salle, Ill., team, socked four home runs a double and a single in six times at bat the other night and struck out 20 while pitching a two-hit game against Springfield Valley. George Estock, who pitches for the Austin, Tex., club of the Big State League, figures he must have set some sort of record by winning ten of his team's first 36 games. Last year he won 10 of his 36 games. And high-pointed his team's first (sounds like a double play of the North State League won 26 of its first 29.

The Travels took their extra-innings struggle with the Lookouts even got the victory margin without a hit as they won in on a hit batter, a walk, an error and an outfield fly. Art McConnell was the winner.

Hot Springs Team Gets New Manager

Hot Springs June 1 — (P) — Glen (Gabby) Stewart was to arrive here today to succeed Pete Fox as manager of the Cotton States League. Fox will be retained as a scout in the Chicago White Sox farm system. The Hot Springs club is an affiliate of the Sox.
Stewart, a former National League infielder, has been managing the Wisconsin Rapids club of the Class D, Wisconsin State League.
The Bathers currently are in seventh place in the Cotton States standings.

Correspondents to Revisit Scene of War

New York, May 31 —(AP)—Forty-four former war correspondents who covered the original D-day landings in Normandy June 6, 1944, are going back on the fifth anniversary to report what progress the years have brought.

The men will tour World War II battle routes in Europe to commemorate the anniversary.

Details of their trip—called "Beachhead revisited"—were announced by American Overseas Airlines.

The correspondents, who reported on the European war for newspapers, wire services, radio networks, magazines, picture services and newscasts will retrace the routes of American armies through France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Germany.

They will be decorated in Paris by the French government for wartime services.

Included in the group are three Associated Press men: Ed Ball, now chief of AP's Nashville Bureau; Hal Boyle, a columnist; and Peter J. Carroll, photographer of Boston.

Papers Must Be Used in Coplon Trial

Washington, May 31 (AP) The defense in Judith Coplon's trial on espionage charges today lost its attempt to bar the use of evidence of papers found in her purse when she was arrested with a Russian last March.

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves denied without comment a motion by Miss Coplon's attorney, Archibald Palmer, to suppress the papers.

The government's case hangs in part on the papers. It contends that Miss Coplon, 28, copied secret documents that she got to see as a justice department employee.

Palmer brought up a long-pending motion to suppress the papers when T. Scott Miller, Jr., an FBI agent, began telling of his examination of Miss Coplon's purse after her arrest with Valentine A. Gubichev in New York the night of March 4.

Gubichev, 32, is a Russian engineer who was employed by the United Nations at the time. He has been suspended from his UN job. A New York grand jury has indicted him and Miss Coplon on a spy conspiracy charge.

AIR FORCE MAPS ALASKAN "WASTELANDS"—With mounted aerial cameras shooting every 20 seconds, a B-29 of the Air Force's 72nd Photo Reconnaissance Squadron travels back and forth over typically rugged Alaskan terrain on a photo-run. Since 1946, the unit has mapped more than 2,400,000 square miles of Alaska and Arctic region, once labeled wasteland because it defied exploration.

THEY GIVE ALASKA'S BIG PICTURE—A team of specialists of the Air Force's 72nd Photo Reconnaissance Squadron in Fairbanks, Alaska, matches up several photos and mounts them onto a giant mosaic which gives the big picture of once uncharted Arctic wastelands. Since 1946, the unit has turned over 2,400,000 square miles of Alaska and the Arctic region into precise topographical aerial photo maps.

Wind Blows Sailboat Behind Curtain

Hamburg, Germany, May 31 (UP)—An ill wind blew a small sailboat behind the iron curtain Saturday night, becoming a four barefooted American consular employee in the Soviet zone of Germany for 24 hours.

Released after hours of questioning were John M. Perry, 30, of Athens, Ga., U. S. vice consul in Hamburg and three women who work at the displaced persons camp near Berkeford—Miss Mona Meier of Kansas City, Kan.; Miss Catherine S. Davis of Conroe, Tex., and Miss Margerite Coombs of Montclair, N. J.

Their small boat drifted into the eastern zone despite the frantic bailing of the three women and the special distress signal, Miss Davis' mother saw a letter, they hoisted.

During the night in which they were shifted from place to place "in a friendly manner," the Americans were asked questions about everything from atomic bomb to just how many women one man can sail with.

The 22-year-old major who commands the Russian post at Darsow in the Soviet zone thought it strange that one man should be out with three women.

"I convinced him," vice consul Perry said, "that we Americans prefer being alone with one girl, but this was different because we all wanted to sail."

Later, Perry reported, two Russians lieutenants tried to "squeeze" him, asking him about the atomic bomb and why the American government is so unfriendly toward Moscow.

Perry said his group hired a nine-foot dingy at Travemunde in the British zone Saturday.

"The weather was a little windy but not dangerous in any way. The ladies dressed in slacks and blouses. I wore slacks and a polo shirt—no shoes, since we intended to return in a few hours."

"Outside Lubeck we faced rough winds and quite choppy water but no one was nervous. I noticed that our dingy took some water and was rapidly drifting towards the south side of the bay."

Chicago, May 31 — (UP) — A truck driver called state police early today with an urgent alarm.

"Hurry up," he said, "There's a man paddling down the highway in a swivel chair."

The cops raced out to suburban Norwood township. They found Al Hahn, 58, scooting along the Harlem avenue highway in the chair.

"He sure looked weird," said Sgt. Robert Bennett. "He was using his legs to push himself along. Once in a while he'd try to kind-of-hop and hobble forward."

Hahn, the cops found, was tied to the chair with ropes.

He said he was a watchman at an outdoor theater. About 2 a.m., five men had held him up, tying him to the chair while they went to work on the two office safes.

They hoisted a small safe containing about $5,000 into a car.

They worked on the other for two hours with crowbars, hammers and harkaws but couldn't open it. Finally they drove away.

Then Hahn began his travels in the chair.

"It wasn't hard to get out of the office," he said, "But the block from there to the highway was rugged. I had smooth sailing after I hit the pavement."

When the truck driver spotted him, Hahn had traveled about 500 yards in an hour of combined scooting, rolling, hopping and hobbling.

Drag Lake for College Student and Fiancee

Bolton Landing, N. Y., May 31 —(AP)— Searchers dragged Lake George today in the hunt for a Union college sophomore and his pretty fiancee.

Missing since they shoved off Sunday morning on a canoe-trip picnic are:

Cuthbert O. (Jerry) Walker, Jr., 31, a native of Little Rock, Ark., who entered the Schenectady college after four years in the army signal corps.

Miss Alma Gatti 24, of Schenectady, a former Union college employee.

The canoe, half full of water and containing an empty knapsack, was found yesterday afternoon along the east shore.

New Products Announced By Standard Oil

A new series of Motor Oils reported to have achieved a higher rating than any Competitive Passenger Car Oil in overall performance have been developed by Esso Standard Oil Company and is being introduced to the Public today, according to Mr. P. J. Ward, Arkansas Division Manager.

The quality of the new lubricants is attributed to an unusually High Viscosity Index, which greatly reduces the natural tendency of oil to thicken as it cools or thin out as it is heated, and an excellent resistance to oxidation and bearing corrosion. Controlled detergent properties have been added to help keep engines clean. This resistance to change in body with changing temperature, the Company said results in added engine protection and oil mileage over that available when using any competitive product.

Laboratory and road tests revealed that the new oil gives more miles of operation before it becomes necessary to add a quart. This is true, it was pointed out, since these new oil maintains its low natural pour points and are further treated with an additive to assure prompt lubrication at minimum anticipated temperatures.

All grades likely to be used in cold weather are dewaxed to give low natural pour points and are further treated with an additive to assure prompt lubrication at minimum anticipated temperatures. In addition, the Zero grade has been prepared especially for use in the very cold Northern states and is reported to be far superior for this service to any Motor Oil now being used in these areas.

The New Lubricants will be known as Esso Extra Motor Oil in grades Zero, 1, 2, 3 and 5. The number system being used rather than the conventional SAE 10, 20,

Negroes Sought or Shooting Policeman

Hamlet, N. C., May 31 —(UP)— A young policeman, part of his tongue shot off, set off a two-state manhunt for three Negroes today by painfully writing details of their attack on him.

Rex Howell 26, wouldn't let nurses aid him until he had penciled descriptions of the three men, one of whom was wanted in a Virginia shooting.

He said he had chased down a car this morning to check for a Hamlet negro wanted in Norfolk, Va., for shooting his wife and children. One of the three Negroes in the car fired suddenly as Howell asked the driver for his license.

The bullet entered Howell's mouth, chopped off part of his tongue and lodged in the base of the brain.

Critically hurt and unable to speak, Howell drove to a hospital where he wrote out his story.

One of the nurses attending him as he battled against death was his fiancee.

Police identified one of the occupants of the car as James S. Digg, 36, who is wanted in the

Margaret O'Brien's Mother Seeking Divorce

Hollywood, June 1. — (UP) — Mrs. Gladys Sylvio said today that her daughter, Film Star Margaret O'Brien had nothing to do with her decision to end her three-month marriage to Bandleader Lon Sylvio.

She announced yesterday that she would seek an annulment.

The 12-year-old star was a tearful guest at their wedding last February in Palm Beach, Fla., after objecting bitterly before the marriage.

"It just hasn't worked out," Mrs. Sylvio said. "You might say Lon and I have been separated ever since the wedding."

"Margaret is very happy about my decision."

The wide-eyed young actress cried when plans for the wedding were first announced last winter. She and her mother were vacationing in Palm Beach.

Shortly after the marriage the mother took Margaret to Europe on a two-month vacation trip to appease her, leaving the bridegroom behind.

Margaret was asked whether she was happy on the trip.

"Yes, because I was alone with mother," she said.

Mrs. Sylvio said the star refused to call her stepfather daddy, pup or Don. It was always "Lie" or "Mr. ylvio."

Sylvio is a Palm Beach and Hollywood bandleader. He knew Margaret's mother, a former dancer, for five years before they were married.

Arizona's copper mines are among the greatest in the world.

Killing of his wife and two children May 26 at Norfolk, Va.

A dramatic search for the three fugitives was spread through the swamp woodland south of here bordering on the South Carolina line. Eight North Carolina highway patrolmen led possees reportedly totaling more than 100 policemen from surrounding towns, sheriff's deputies and volunteers.

Along the state line South Carolina highway patrolmen set up blockades.

The Negroes were believed to be on foot. Their auto was found abandoned upon shortly after the shooting.
